DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Skinner (1,003,213). Skinner shows a dental instrument comprising an elongated portion 6 and curved portions 11 on either end of the elongated portion. The curvature of the curved portions have the general curvature of at least one of posterior teeth and anterior teeth (see Figs. 3 and 4). Is to the recitation that the instrument is "for measuring deposits on teeth", a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim. In a claim drawn to a process of making, the intended use must result in a manipulative difference as compared to the prior art. See In re Casey, 152 USPQ 235 (CCPA 1967) and In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458, 459 (CCPA 1963).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Skinner (1,003,213). The curved portions of Skinner are not disclosed as having different curvatures for the anterior and posterior teeth. It would have been an obvious design choice, to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, to form the curved portions of Skinner to have different curvatures for the anterior and posterior teeth so that the same instrument can be used for all the teeth, thereby cutting down on the number of instruments required.

Claims 6-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Skinner (1,003,213) in view of Urban (5,676,544). The instrument of Skinner does not include markings for measuring on the curved portions. Urban shows a dental instrument for cleaning teeth and includes markings 380-388 for measuring periodontal pockets. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the curved portions of Skinner with markings, as taught by Urban, so that the instrument may also be used for measuring the periodontal pocket.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 11-16 are allowed.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
